DR. HOPKINS' WAR TALK GETS CASH FOR BELGIUM

Experiences as Red Cross Worker at Front.

Describes Amusing Incidents of His Return From France-Shows Battle Scenes He Photographed.

Strong appeal for generous relief to the Belgian sufferers by Dr. Nevil Monroe Hopkins, who had seen actual field service among them as a Red Cross worker, was made yesterday afternoor at an illustrated lecture in the Belasco Theater. He gave a graphic panoramic traversing all of the belligerent countries during the times of greatest war panic, telling of scenes as he himself had witnessed them.

He had a very sympathetic audience The theater was filled to capacity, and the fact that his urging all to send checks as they were able to the Bel-gian legation for the succoring of this "little great nation of Belgium" struck a responsive note is shown by the fact

Most Striking Picture.

The most striking picture was of a real battle scene, painted by a famous London illustrator from a description given him by Dr. Hopkins. It was here that Dr. Hopkins had his battle baptism. Itshowed a masked battery, a much broader significance that art has with officers on horeback in the rear, being charged by German infantry, with a regiment of English cavalry swooping down upon their rear. In this battle the Germans were practically moved down and almost annihilated.

The lectures will all be given in the auditorium of the National Museum and auditorium of the National Museum and appear Friday for sentence.

This battle the Germans were practically mowed down and almost annihilated.

Dr. Hopkins' tour was begun as a pleasure trip, with the intention of extending it around the world, but when he was in Petrograd the war cloud broke, and he hurried back to France to see actual service in the field. An aparty of eight women dependent upon him for guidance and protection, and he frequently referred in jocular vein to their experiences.

He told several amusing stories about his mother, who is personally well known to many in the audience. He showed a photographic freak—looking down from the Elffel tower, explaining dwin from the Elffel tower, explaining and instructive; the next, Deston on "Painting."

Lane Releases Oregon Lands.

Secretary Lane has recently six order d frequently referred in jocular vein to their experiences.

He told several amusing stories about his mother, who is personally well known to many in the audience. He showed a photographic freak—looking down from the Elifel tower, explaining that it was near the base of this, while taking his mother for a walk to see an airship gun trained against German aerial craft, that they were both arrested and she uas greatly shocked.

Again he told of how they missed the Tennessee, on which they were to take passage as refugees to London, after a wild chase through a seaport town and across bridges onto a quay, only to see the Tennessee steaming away. And all during this wild chase he was pushing a hand cart with their grips on it and his dignified mother sitting in state on top of the luggage.

Demands of Refugees.

Dr. Hopkins also told amusing incidents of the importunate and preposterous demands of refugees at the American embassy in Paris during the early days of the panic when he was assisting Ambassador Herrick in the registration of the American refugees.

A dramatic incident occurred, he said, when he was arrested by a German guard on the northern French frontier, his papers taken from him and promised to be returned only if he could fix two motors captured from the Belgians and which they had intentionally put out of commission. As he is an engineer as well as a doctor of philosophy. and which they had intentionally put out of commission. As he is an engineer as well as a doctor of philosophy. Br. Hopkins said he worked a solution of the trouble after two hours' labor. He was then ordered to run the motors to a point near Antwerp. He did so. "But," he added, "observing the machines were powerful and dangerous weapons of war, I slipped the cogs so they were again out of order when I left them. This was done in strict neutrality, after my papers were returned. I left the machines as helpless as I found them."

Saw German Dirigible.

Another stirring incident experienced Dr. Hopkins was when a German dirigible flew directly over the carriage in which he and his daughter were driving. This arship was dropping bombs and they abandoned their carriage and hid under the coping on a building. He showed a picture taken Interesting snapshots of the war as he saw it were given by Dr. Hopkins, such as that there was an entire absence of brass music with the armies, all of the martial strains being played all of the martial strains being played by fifes and drums. Over Paris the French authorities ordered the French air craft not to fly that there might be a clear field in which to shoot at the Zeppelins and other German machines. Over London a different policy was employed. The English airships kept constant guard to prevent the enemy from getting over their capital and attempting to drop bombs.

Many requests have been made for Dr. Hopkins to give this lecture again in Washington and elsewhere for the benefit of the Belgian and French relief funds and for the Red Cross.

Production of Steel.

The production of all kinds of steel ingots and eastings in the United States in 1913 was 31,300,874 long tons, against 21,599,931 long tons in 1912. The produc-tion of steel by the electric process in tion of steel by the electric process in 1913 amounted to 30,180 tons, compared with 18,399 tons in 1912. In 1908 only fifty-five tons of electric steel was produced. On December 31, 1913, the number of completed plants which were equipped for the manufacture of steel by the electric process was nineteen, an increase of five over the number a year previous.

It is expected that the lecture will raise more than $1,000 for the Belgian relief fund.

Dr. Hopkins' lecture had a particular appeal because it was given in chatty, conversational style, with many little human-interest sidelights that made it more intimate for the audience. He showed 170 lantern slides, many of them from pictures he had made himself, and others which he had secured from photographers throughout Europe in exchange.

It will, in fact, be very practical and of overy broad interest not only to the home maker, but to the decdrator and to those engaged in the art trades.

The attention of the teachers of the clay and of those engaged in the art trades has been especially called to this course and a great deal of interest has already been demonstrated. Out of a similar course of lectures on art in house furnishing and decoration given in the West Side Y. M. C. A. of New York has grown the Art in Trades Club of that city.
